New Personal Care Products Website Combines a Commitment to Safe Sex Practices with a Large Variety of Top Quality Condoms and other Products, the Privacy of Shopping From Home, and a Source of Information on Safe Sex

Condomseller.com is a retail website specializing in the delivery of personal care products (specifically condoms, pregnancy tests/ovulation kits, lubricants, etc in a professional, easy to use, confidential and affordable manner.

Westfield, NJ – Monday, May 15, 2006. The newly launched Condomsellers.com website evolved from a wholesale liquidation service specializing in personal care products. Their objective is to provide customers with top quality products with all the comforts of shopping from home. Personal privacy is an overriding component of their service. All products are shipped in discreet packaging. Your personal information is never disclosed to any other business.

Condomsellers.com offers over 15 brands and over 15 styles of condoms to choose from. The company has made a commitment to provide customers with a large variety of products to satisfy anyone's sexual preference.

An overriding consideration at Condomsellers.com is safe sex. A whole section of their website is devoted to information on safe sex, including 10 reasons to use condoms.

Meeting all the needs of their customers is what drives condomsellers.com. "The customer can ALWAYS go somewhere else. I want our website to convey that philosophy in the variety, service and quality of products we offer", said Carl Stoffers, president of Condomsellers.com.

About CondomSellers.com

Condomsellers.com started as a wholesale liquidation service, specializing in personal care products. They have recently decided to move into the retail area, utilizing solid contacts in the personal care (specifically condoms) field.

Privacy, variety, affordability, and a source of important information on safe sex drives their business.
